CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME

Every man who engages in business takes a chance; the farmer's crop may fail; the ship may sink; even your life insurance is a gamble. Some gambles are even chances; some have odds in your favor. A gamble in Lakewick No. 2 oil company would be $1000 to $1 in your favor. Any man with intelligence takes a chance and develops into a globe trotter or tourist and lives on Easy street; the other man who didn't is still a clerk at his old job. John D. Rockefeller might still be a clerk, but he took a gamble in oil—his salary is now about a half million dollars daily; he don't work now. Today is your opportunity—tomorrow may be too late. Cut this out and come and see me; you have everything to gain in this gamble. Shares now 40c. will be worth a dollar when I get cable to stop.

SOME CATARRHAL AFFECTIONS PECULIAR TO HOT CLIMATES.

Catarrhal Diseases of the Abdominal Organs Treated by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Antonio Llabres Gintron, Arroyo, Porto Rico, writes: "When I commenced taking Peruna I weighed 115 pounds. After taking one bottle of the medicine I weighed 120 pounds. "My nasal catarrh has completely disappeared with the use of your marvelous medicine and I will never tire of recommending it to my many friends when they have the same trouble."

Although catarrh of the head and throat are not infrequent in hot climates, yet catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the bowels, catarrh of the kidneys, and catarrh of the pelvic organs are most frequent.

The catarrh of warm climates assumes a phase peculiar to such countries. It may not at all resemble the catarrh of cold climates in appearance, yet it is the same disease.

Catarrh means congestion of a mucous membrane.

Generally in the cold climates the membranes oftenest affected by catarrh are the ones lining the nose or the cavities of the head, throat and lungs.

The mucous membranes oftenest affected by catarrh in hot climates are the ones lining the organs of the abdomen and pelvis.

Wherever human beings dwell, whether in the tropics or the arctic, catarrh is the principal disease mankind has to contend against.

Peruna has long since been recognized as the world's standard remedy for catarrh in all its phases, stages and varieties.

Monterrey, Mexico.

Most Esteemed Sir: Peruna has produced magnificent results for those who have used it in this city. I am assured of these good results by one of our leading physicians, Senor Doctor Don Juan de Dios Trevino, whose high reputation is justly founded upon his scientific knowledge and practical skill.

That the use of Peruna may be extended everywhere for the relief of suffering humanity is the desire of Yours very sincerely,

Santiago de la Garza Zambrano, (Archbishop of Linares.) Juarez Street No. 2.

HAWAII'S COFFEE CROP

EDITOR STAR:— Now that the new crop of coffee is coming in, it might be of interest to know the output of the Islands last season. Your figures as published in Thursday's paper of the exports to the mainland do not represent the crop. The exports to foreign countries must be added, and to these figures the consumption in the Islands. Exports to foreign countries amounted to 324,531 pounds, of the value of $38,441. Add these figures to the shipments to the mainland as given by you, and we have $320,320 as the value of the coffee shipped out of the Islands. Now the consumption of coffee per capita in the United States is 11 3/4 pounds. The same rate of consumption in Hawaii, taking our population at 190,000, which is not far from correct, would mean 2,232,500 consumed here, or 22,325 bags. If this is correct, it would bring our total crop up to 48,606 bags. I doubt if that much is produced. Hawaii has a large Asiatic population that are not coffee drinkers. Close figuring by growers put the total crop produced in Hawaii around 40,000 bags. If 26,281 bags were exported that would leave the home consumption at 12,719 bags, which is nearer correct, and reducing our consumption per capita to a much lower figure than on the mainland—namely, to less than 7 pounds. At 40,000 bags the value of Hawaii's coffee is near to half a million dollars. It might be of further interest to your readers to know that most of the coffee shipped to the mainland is first grade, that to foreign countries (mainly Japan, China and the Australian colonies) mostly second grade, while the bulk of the lower grades is consumed at home.

J. M. MCCLESNEY.
